"Walking through the doors of Better People was the best decision that I have ever made. At that time, I met an extraordinary woman by the name of Clariner Boston. After sharing about myself, what led to my incarceration, my aspirations and personal goals, Ms. Boston enrolled me in Better People's MRT Program. I will never forget Ms. Boston's wise words: 'If you come into this program wanting change more than you want anything else ... you do not have to see another day of incarceration.' Better People taught me how to become the change that I wanted to see! Further, that change had to start with me." - Jamaica

"I continue to be impressed with Better People. This organization works with those who have fallen down in society, to turn their lives around and become productive and law abiding members of our community."
- Commander James C. Ferraris,
Portland Police Bureau-North Precinct

"I walked into Better People's ... office feeling as though my life was over. I felt worthless and had an overall feeling of being a complete failure ... I would like to share ... how the program has impacted my life. It taught me the significance of honesty, trust, acceptance and how imperative it is to take responsibility for the consequences of my actions ... I need not accuse others, but accept responsibility for my own problems and find the acceptable path to make the right choice... we all deserve another chance to prove we can change and make positive contributions to society." - Christine
